Certain theological scholars question the biblical basis of some of his doctrines, particularly the emphasis on speaking words of faith as a means of controlling circumstances. Critics suggest that this can lead to a form of 'word-faith' prosperity theology that minimizes human suffering and divine sovereignty.

While many followers attest to healings and miracles, skeptics have challenged the authenticity of such claims, citing the possibility of staged testimonies or emotional manipulation. Some investigations have called into question the medical veracity of certain healing claims.
