Its modern incarnation appears to have emerged in the early 2000s, a period marked by an increased interest in three-dimensional puzzles and optical illusions.

Designers were inspired by the natural spectrum of colors and the challenge of translating that into physical form. The idea was to craft a puzzle that was not only intellectually stimulating but also visually captivating, blending color theory with geometric complexity. The initial prototypes were handcrafted models made from wood and acrylic, with the final product refined through iterative testing and feedback from puzzle communities.
