Published initially in the mid-20th century, Polish Russian: The Classic Cookbook was conceived as a comprehensive guide to the traditional recipes of these neighboring cultures. Its editors, a team of culinary historians and chefs, sought to preserve the authenticity of age-old dishes amid rapid modernization and globalization.

The cookbook's origins are tied to a broader movement during the post-war period to document and safeguard regional culinary traditions against the encroaching homogenization of international fast food and commercial cuisine. Its publication reflected a desire to celebrate and sustain cultural identity through food.
