Despite these obstacles, he displayed an insatiable curiosity about nature and a keen interest in plants and farming from a young age.

Overcoming Adversity

Carver's early years were marked by hardship. He was kidnapped as an infant along with his family but was later returned, although his family was never reunited. As a Black child in the segregated South, opportunities for formal education were limited. Nevertheless, Carver's determination led him to pursue learning wherever he could find it—often self-educating himself in botany, art, and agriculture. His early fascination with plants laid the foundation for his future innovations.
